Uniqlo-owner Fast Retailing sees "absolutely" no impact from China slowdown - CEO

SHANGHAI, SEPT 26

Japanese apparel retailer Fast Retailing Co Ltd, the owner of Uniqlo clothing chain, is seeing "absolutely" no impact on its business from the economic slowdown in China, its chief executive said on Saturday.

Speaking to reporters in Shanghai, where he is visiting to mark the global launch of a new product line-up in collaboration with Walt Disney CO, Fast Retailing Chief Executive Tadashi Yanai said China still presented plenty of opportunities.

"It's changing from a manufacturing- and export-led economy to that of one lead by consumption. People's living standards will get better. Income will rise," he said.

"Luxury items may not sell all that well but we ... sell clothes that are made for all."
